

20-20 FUSION TO HOST FUSION CARE SEMINARS AT KBB 2010

20-20 Fusion, the leading provider of design software solutions for the kitchen and bathroom industry, is running a series of free seminars at KBB 2010 designed to update supported customers on its latest software developments and other news from the company.

The Fusion Care seminars will provide our supported customers with the perfect platform to learn more about the latest release of Fusion Design software - Version 17 and the wide range of new features that this update offers.

Attendees will benefit from a variety of 'hints and tips', all of which are based on frequently asked questions received by the Fusion Support helpline. Customers will also have the chance to ask questions and provide feedback regarding their own experiences of using the Fusion Design software. In addition to this, special offers will be available exclusively to seminar delegates.

During the seminars, 20-20 Fusion's newly restructured training packages will be advertised. Customers will receive full details of the types training course now on offer and when they are available, along with advice on which training package is most suitable for them.

Craig Rothwell, 20-20 Fusion's Managing Director, said: "These seminars offer us the opportunity to provide maximum support to our customers. Designing can be a very solitary business and, while our Fusion Support team is only ever a phone call away, nothing can really beat discovering more about the software and its many benefits on a first hand basis. The seminars also provide the perfect opportunity to network and for delegates to give us their feedback on our product."
